

ASERO Worldwide Wins New Jersey Training Contract

October 15, 2009

Comprehensive security consulting firm ASERO Worldwide has been selected by the state of New Jersey as one of five contractors to provide training services in homeland security, law enforcement and public safety, Doron Bergerbest-Eilon, ASERO president and chief executive officer, announced today.

ASERO will compete with the other contract awardees for task orders to provide New Jersey with training solutions for law enforcement and other public services agencies. The structured training programs will be delivered to first responders and will include courses, seminars and exercises in the areas of hazardous materials, confined space operations and weapons of mass destruction.

“This multi-year award confirms our strong capabilities in the homeland security training arena and recognizes ASERO’s proven management and training competence,” said Bergerbest-Eilon.
